O'CELLI

BIOGRAPHY

The unique vibration of this instrument, multiplied by eight, gives a cathedral-like dimension to the works arranged and revisited by the musicians. The ensemble also likes to encourage the creation of original works. Ô-Celli is certainly a group of classically trained musicians, but above all they are musicians who reflect the times, open to the world and its diversity.

Our concerts are invitations to travel, through time and beyond stylistic boundaries. From Verdi to Queen, Strauss to Piazzolla, "in the end it's always music that wins" (Michel Legrand).

Ô-Celli is a human adventure formed by solo cellists and chamber musicians who share the same passion for their instrument.

Since 2011, the year of their first concerts, Les Huit de Bruxelles have had one watchword: pleasure! The pleasure they derive from performing together on the roads and stages of Europe and Canada, the pleasure they see in the eyes of their audiences, and the pleasure they derive from continuing to build new projects.
